Item 10:

Event Details: We have had our current printer since 2004; it recently stopped functioning. With the counsel of Ryan Turcotte and Dylan Herts, our IT representatives, we decided that we should get a new printer. We are working with IT to determine exactly which model, but it will be a black & white laserjet printer capable of dealing with the high print volume necessary for editing. Rather than waiting for the exact model, I am putting in the request now, because this is crucial for the functioning of the office, and we can't wait on it for long.

BC Comments:

Diwa says it will be tabled. Amani wants to know what CAP is. Diwa wants to know why a $3000 printer is needed. Matt wants to know who paid for the last one---no one knows. Diwa notes that BC didn't fund Pride Alliance and are considering funding this. There is a motion to fund $3,000. Chris defends his decision to fund this.

Item 10:

Event Details:

The Amherst Economic Forum has scheduled Catherine O'Neil to speak on the origins of the credit crisis, the impending settlement between banks and Attorney Generals, and what should be done to ensure that such a crisis does not occur again. The event is set for Tuesday, February 21st at 8 pm. I'm in the process of booking either the Red Room of Pruyne Lecture Hall.

A bit on Ms. O'Neil:

"Cathy O'Neil earned a Ph.D. in math from Harvard, was postdoc at MIT in the math department, and a professor at Barnard College where she published a number of research papers in arithmetic algebraic geometry. She then chucked it and switched over to the private sector. She worked as a quant for the hedge fund D.E. Shaw (where she worked with Larry Summers) in the middle of the credit crisis, and then for RiskMetrics, a risk software company that assesses risk for the holdings of hedge funds and banks. Since this spring she's been a data scientist for the startup media company Intent Media."
<http://strataconf.com/jumpstart2011/public/schedule/speaker/125637>

"While attending college at the University of California-Berkeley in the early 1990s, O'Neil never considered herself political. After studying number theory at Harvard and completing a mathematics post-doc at MIT, she joined D.E. Shaw in 2007, where [she worked with Larry Summers and] her job was to use mathematical reasoning and statistical modeling to predict movements in the market. Three months into her job, the stock market dipped, a hedge fund failed, and her firm lost a ton of money. She started to question many of the assumptions underpinning her work."
<http://motherjones.com/politics/2011/12/ows-alternative-banking>

Here is the mission statement of The Amherst Economic Forum:

In the present economy, our generation faces a difficult choice between money and values, morals and economics. We can make money and possibly instigate a financial crisis, or we can devote ourselves to social progress but earn considerably less. The Amherst Economic Forum engages this problem through an economic and moral lens. We aim to develop a vision in which we can make money while simultaneously making our families and communities healthier and wealthier. The Forum brings knowledgeable speakers to campus, facilitates conversation between experts and students, and publishes students' own writings—all in order to explore economic issues pertinent to our nation.

BC Comments: No comments. There is a motion to fund $515. 6, 0, 1 (Chris)

Item 9:
Item 10:

Event Details: During MOMENTUM we will discuss ways to bridge the baffling dichotomies our culture creates around sexuality. While on one hand we have unprecedented sexual freedom, on the other we continue to police sexuality with a frightening vigor. Abortion laws, restrictions on gay marriage, abstinence programs, medicalization of sex, fear of pornography and prosecutions for teenage sexting are examples of one side of the spectrum. The discomfort that strives to make us keep our sexuality hidden conflicts with the use of sex — especially the female body — to sell everything from food to cars to “performance enhancing” products.

BC Comments: No questions. Dvij makes a motion to fund $500.

Will wants to know the registration process. DiWa asks if they opened it up to the school--yes, they did.

Item 10:

Event Details:

Wing Chun distinguishes itself from other types of martial arts in that it relies on superior techniques instead of superior strength. This is why Wing Chun is often used in female defense class and even a mere wisp of a female trained in Wing Chun can take down a hulk of a male. Wing Chun serves as a major influence on many martial art practitioners, including famous ones like Bruce Lee, and is practiced in over 64 countries.

BC Comments: Jess doesn't feel comfortable funding trip food. Will asks him why. Jess asks what the dvds are for. Chris thinks everything but the food is "legit". Jess says that we don't fund food "like that", and thinks that the fact that it's been funded in the past is a mistake. There is dissention over the DVDS and food. Publicity is changed to $50.

Requester asks if he can have emergency funding for climbing fees. Diwa tells him some can be emergency funded now ($200) but the rest will have to wait.

I hope to register two teams for the upcoming Northampton indoor soccer league to allow members of the Amherst Soccer teams and all else interested to participate in a competitive soccer environment during February and March.

Six players are on the field at each time and as many as fifteen people may be a part of a team. The games are played in an indoor arena and each team has a game once a week for the regular season with the playoffs occurring from April 1-6th. We plan to publicize the teams to get any others who may be interested in playing involved. Thank you.

James Mooney

BC Comments:

Chris doesn't think we should be funding athletic teams. Amani thinks the athletics department should be funding it. The BC discusses that it's not really for anyone but the men's soccer team. Diwa thinks this should be funded.

Diwa brings up that the BC should be asking if organizations are student-run and recognized.

Jess thinks they will make the same mistakes that Women's Soccer did. Abigail says that's not fair.

Diwa suggests we table. Jess motions to fund $0. 3,3, 1 (Diwa abstains, things get awkward, she must make a decision).

Matt makes a motion to table. 4, 2, 1. Tabled.

BC Comments: Diwa asks Pride Alliance to clarify their reduced request. Jess asks if they need emergency funding for their speaker, Robyn*. Diwa asks about the girl scout cookies event. Diwa wants to make sure there is a "sustained educational programming" that comes with the girl scout cookies. Diwa restates that they are just looking for the girl scout cookies and the hotel room, and asks if the BC wants to emergency fund the hotel room. (7, 0, 0).

Diwa asks if they want to fund the girl scout cookies.

Amani says plans should be stabilized. Chris agrees. Jess agrees.

Item 9:

Item 10:

Event Details: Renaissance in the Belly of a Killer Whale is a play that has been performed off-broadway and in numerous venues around New York City and now the country. The play tackles the idea of a neighborhood being gentrified through the eyes of the residents, the “gentrifiers,” and those who were once residents who have moved up, returned to their communities and now find themselves on the other side of the fence. The play is performed with prose, verse in a spoken word style, and song. The topic is interesting for a range of majors including black studies, anthropology, sociology, history and theater and dance. I’m hoping to create an event where people with all of these interests can come together and have a discussion about a current academic topic that is presented in an alternative, intellectual form.

BC Comments:

There is confusion over fees. It is actually $500 for the seminar, NOT $5,000, which is what BC thought, due to clerical error. Hotel fee is taken out, for now. Performance fee is halved ($2500). None for the refreshments.

There is a motion to fund $3310

The 17th Annual Yale Black Solidarity Conference (February 16, 2012-February 19, 2012)

Each year the Amherst College Black Student Union has attended this conference, in an effort to meet with other college Black Student Unions and Associations to discuss pertinent issues in the black community. The Black Solidarity Conference was founded in 1994 around the concept of Black Solidarity Day, an event inspired by Douglas Turner Ward's play Day of Absence. The conference serves as a forum for students of color to exchange ideas and opinions about pressing issues while providing an avenue to network with peers. In the past we have had speakers such as Dr. Na'im Akbar, Dr. Kathleen Cleaver, Aaron McGruder, Spike Lee, Cousin Jeff from Cousin Jeff Chronicles, Tavis Smiley, Dr. Michael Eric Dyson, and most recently, Dr. Cornel West. Last year the Black Solidarity Conference tackled the issue of education and economics in the black community. A major theme within the conversations that took place was the idea of accessing the resources necessary to uplift ourselves and our local communities. This year BSC will be comprised of panels and discussions that will look specifically at perceptions of sexuality as unifiers and dividers of the black community. Our events will culminate in a Keynote Address by Dr. Angela Davis, one of America's most provocative and insightful public intellectuals and someone who will have much to share on this year's theme.

Our budget only provides for one night, but we will be staying for 3 nights. The invoice from the hotel provides the information of the total hotel costs are below:

42 rooms nights
$119.00 room rate: $4998.00
15% occupancy tax: $749.70

GRAND TOTAL: $5747.70

However, we are only requesting $3647.70, which is the grand total minus $2100.
